COUNCIL TRANSACTS LOT OF ROUTINE BUSINESS

At the council meeting last night there was much controversy over the delivery of improvement bonds No. 276 for street work to Raven Brothers. Garrard, Long and Lane thought the bonds should not be released until property owners who had been overcharged on the Pullman sewer work had their money returned, and because of which Raven is facing a charge of conspiracy. City Engineer Chapman explained that they could receive the money if they put in their claims, but Long thought it singular that the poor people of Pullman had to go through a lot of red tape to get their money back.

It was the consensus of opinion that Raven Brothers should come before the council and try to exonerate themselves.

Pullman residents petitioned to have the Pullman Hotel bar investigated, and Smith, the proprietor, will be called before the council to show why his license should not be revoked.

A plan to organize the High school eighth grade students to canvass the city with the view of boosting the $25,000 playground bond issue, will be discussed next Wednesday at 3 o'clock in the council chambers by the council and the high and grammar chool bonds and recreation commission.

A fire house will be built for the Volunteer Fire Co., in place of the one they now occupy, at the suggestion of Councilman Long.

Plans and specifications for the costructio of sewers in Wenke's Addition, Nissen's Addition, Alta Punta tract and Bay View park tract were laid over a week.

P. S. Sanford's bond was accepted and filed. He will build the fre house No. 4 at Pullman.

A light will be installed on Orchard avenue.

The report of the Social Service Bureau showed that 24 families and 75 persons had been assisted, several cases relieved, and groceries, provisions and clothing given out to the amount of $116.95.

VEGETABLES AND EGGS AT MUNICIPAL MARKET

It was vegetable and egg day at the municipal markets yesterday, with a big supply of fish also, and by night they were all cleaned out except a few heads of cabbage.

It was shown to the satisfaction of the committee at the close of business last Saturday that the municipal markets are a success. The receipts from fish alone will pay all the overhead.

The vegetable supply yesterday was first class, with all the varieties in season, and a nice lot of fresh eggs were received. M. Cavanaugh, who has charge of the up-town market, says business was good, and Manager Walker of the Point store also sent in a good report.

Today there will be more fish, more vegetables and more eggs.

THE TICKET.

Long	1371
Garrard	978
Watson	782
Yonce	780
Curry	684
Ludewig	628

These are the six men who will fight it out for councilman at the regular election May 14.

Harry O. Watson.

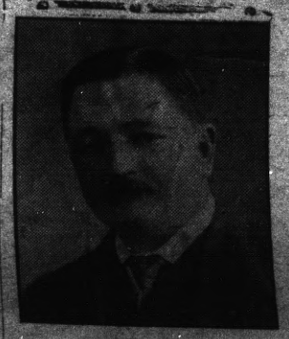
As the News predicted, Long was high man at yesterday's primaries. He would have been elected, having more than half of the total, but it appears the charter does not provide for this condition.

The News predicted that Garrard and Watson would be next.

The vote was light, even lighter than the News said it would be. With more than 6000 registered voters there should have been a much larger vote cast.

Reuben Curry.

Charles G. Yonce.



Otto R. Ludewig.

PROPHETS AT WORK.

Predictions are freely made that Long and Garrard will be returned to office, and that the man to succeed Penry, who was nosed out in the primaries, will be Watson. Political dopesters figure that Ludewig and Yonce will be in each other's way.

Yonce made a good campaign, and a number of the merchants did considerable work for him. Of course, it is expected that he will get a bigger vote at the regular election, but that is true of all, in a measure, as there will be more votes cast. Curry will get a larger proportionate vote in the regular election, for the reason that a lot of the Point vote that went to Transue, Lilly and others will go to him.

Ludewig is also to be reckoned with, as he showed surprising strength.

Friends of Watson figure that he will get a large vote in the regular election, for the reason that a lot of the Point vote that went to Transue, Lilly and others will go to him.

RED CROSS TAG DAY WAS A HUGE SUCCESS

Yesterday was Red Cross tag day. Incidentally a lot of people got the double cross, the triple cross and the quadruple cross. What could you expect, when all the pretty girls in town were on the job

There were mighty few slackers. The young ladies on the committee let no guilty man escape. Some of Richmond's citizens were decorated until they looked like Red Cross supply houses.

The first order to the printers was 2000 tags, but before noon yesterday the supply ran out and 2000 more were ordered. The press boys in the News job department printed tags yesterday until they saw red every way they looked.

This little affair was to have been pulled off today, but at the last minute the ladies remembered that yesterday was election day, and so that committee of Richmond beauties just hung around the polls and took in the money. It was a splendid strategic move, and we strongly suspect Mrs. H. D. Chapman to be the strategist.

Mrs. Joseph F. Brooks was the general commanding and the following named constituted the army:

Mrs. Ed Gray, Mrs. Joseph Brothers, Miss Della Wilsey, H. D. Mason, H. D. Chapman and C. F. Donnelly. The "helpers" were Mrs. G. B. Fredenburg, Mrs. Charles Niedecker, Mrs. V. A. Feuner, Mrs. Harry Adair, Mrs. Harry Transue, Mrs. Ernest Weise, Mrs. W. D. Mason, Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Fred La Moine, Mrs. Andrew Christensen, Mrs. H. W. Lunceford, Mrs. W. J. Caesar, Mrs. Ursa S. Abbott, Mrs. A. Alstrom, Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mrs. Harry Adkison, Mrs. Larkin Lounce, Mrs. E. W. O'Brien and Mrs. Stanley Wright.

A whist party for the purpose of raising more funds to further the work of the local branch will be given at Pulse hall on the 10th. The chairs, table, hall and two prizes have been donated. There will be many other prizes, and the affair is assured of being a great success.

The Ladies' Aid of the Christian church will give a 25c tea at the home of Mrs. J. B. Cryan, 706 Chandler avenue, Thursday afternoon, May 3rd.

NOTICE TO NEWS READERS

As the price of print paper has been climbing steadily up, until it has now reached a raise of fully 300 per cent above what it was, and as there seems to be no signs of its coming down to earth again during the war, the price of the News subscription is hereby raised from 35 cents a month to 40 cents a month, commencing with May 1.

This is a business necessity, which all can readily understand. With a raise of 300 per cent on the price of paper, we simply cannot furnish the paper as cheaply as before.

Also, all complimentary copies of the paper will be discontinued, unless those who have been receiving them are willing to pay, same as anybody else. Please understand that the management does not want to do this, but has no choice. It is a business necessity.

The raise in price of paper to us is 300 per cent, while our raise to the reader is only 17 per cent. Those having subscription contracts will not be effected, as all contracts will be met.

FIRST REAL BLOW OF WAR STRUCK BY GERMAN SUB

LONDON, April 30.—The American steamhip Vacuum was torpedoed and sunk Saturday, it was announced today. An American naval lieutenant, nine American naval gunners, the captain of the Vacuum and some of his crew were reported missing.

The lieutenant in command of the gun crew and nine of his men were among the missing reported today.

Three naval gunners were among those saved. Those rescued included the chief mate and seventeen men in all. The captain of the Vacuum and some of the crew are still unaccounted for.

The survivors were attended to by the shipwrecked Mariners' Society.

Unless the American naval lieutenant and his gun crew, now missing, are later rescued, they will be America's first fighting force to lose their lives in America's war with Germany. The naval lieutenant will be the first officer killed.

ADJOURNED SINE DIE.

SACRAMENTO, April 30.—Weary legislators are wending their way homeward today after a sixty-eight day session that came to a close Sunday at 4 a. m. There are 1000 bills, passed by the two legislative branches, now up to the governor for signature or rejection. There were a total of 2885 bills introduced and approximately 1200 were passed.

Chief among the measures passed during the session were Governor Stephens' own bills—those creating a state council of defense and a state defense guard of 1000 men.

The big fights of the session resulted as follows:

Booze vs. prohibition—draw.

Senator Brown vs. Market Director Weinstock—decision for Weinstock.

Labor vs. capital—labor won.

Polsley-Manning vs. fish and game commission—victory for fish and game commission.

Anti-vivisectionists vs. Prendergast—anti-vivi's won.

As business of importance is coming before the meeting, a full attendance is desired.

ALLIES WANT U. S. TROOPS

WASHINGTON, April 30.—It will be only a matter of a few days before United States militia units now mobilized in this country, are on their way to the European front and less than six weeks before they are actually embattled with the Germans on the European front, if the allies' urgent recommendations to the American government today meet the approval of the administration.

It became known today that the allies want American troops in batches of several hundred to go at once to Europe aboard every ship that sails.

The allies want mobilized national guard units which were at the border because they feel these men were equipped by their border work to go at once to the western front and train within sound of big guns so they will be tempered for battle in not longer than five weeks.

AT RICHMOND THEATER

"The Gates of Eden," with Viola Dana as the star, will be shown on the screen here at the Richmond T. and D. theater today.

This Metro-Columbia five-reel production is one of the strongest motion picture offerings of the season. The story was written by the Rev. Dilliam E. Danforth and directed by John H. Collins. Supporting Miss Dana are Augustus Phillips, Robert Walker, Edward Earle, Grace E. Stevens, Fred Jones and Harry Linson.

LONG THANKFUL.

I take this means of expressing my hearty thanks to all who assisted in giving me the hangsom vote at the primaries yesterday. I cannot find words to express my gratitude fittingly. But I thank you all—every one; and I hope I will continue to merit your good will.

Sincerely, JAMES N. LONG.

THINKOGRAPH SUSPENDS FOR WAR.

After mature deliberation I have decided to suspend publication of The Thinkograph magazine until such time as prices on print paper and other things which enter into the makeup of a magazine shall again resume conditions at least partially normal.

The white paper that goes into it as increased over three hundred per cent in price; the cover paper, which a year ago cost $6 a ream, now costs $21 a ream; red ink has gone up to five times what it used to be, and labor has also increased in price. So, after standing a monthly loss right along for the past two years I have come to the conclusion that it is not good business, especially as there is no sign of paper prices coming down. If prices ever return to normal, the publication of the magazine will be resumed, otherwise not.

The subscription list of The Thinkograph will now be added to the News—that is, to the Sunday edition of the News, which edition will be at once enlarged and contain similar articles and items I have been writing for the magazine. Each Thinkograph subscriber will receive the Sunday edition of the News, except a thousand or more who are in arrears, and they will be dropped from the list. This will more than double the list of the Sunday edition of the News, and over a thousand of them are at San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond and all around the bay and Northern California region.

Incidentally this will make the News a splendid advertising medium, especially for realty men and others desiring to reach the general public over a wide area. News stand sales will be discontinued, as the returns on these do not cover to the publisher the first cost of the white paper.

It is with a sad heart that I have decided upon this move, as while I realize that it will be a big boost for the News, The Thinkograph has been a personal pet of mine, and its Sunshine Club of several thousand members have seemed for a number of years past like a sort of big family, or congregation, over which I was pastor. But I did not bring about the war, or the war prices, and while I like to be a philanthropist, and all that sort of thing, charity begins at home, and I cannot stand the continual loss any longer.

I have sent out a circular letter to The Thinkograph readers, telling them that they would receive the Sunday edition of the News, a publication once a week instead of once a month, and they seem to be satisfied with the result. If any of them should not be satisfied, and happen to have paid any ahead for the magazine, they can get their money back by notifying this office.

Commencing next Sunday the Sunday edition of the News will number four thousand copies.

F. J. HULANISKI.

SHOULD WE GO TO EUROPE?

As near as the News is able to judge, from reading the papers, hearing people express opinions, and otherwise, we believe it is the opinion of a large majority of people that it is totally uncalled for and unnecessary, at this time, for American soldiers to be sent across the seas to fight in the trenches of the European battlefields.

There are several reasons for this, and we believe the reasons are sound and logical. In the first place, it is held that with ten millions of Russians and four or five millions of Japs available, providing they are armed, fed and equipped, that an ample supply of men is at hand, and that if America feeds, arms and equips those vast bodies of men, and furnishes their governments with the necessary money to prosecute the war, the necessity of our sending men is not apparent. Our men can be of more necessity tilling the soil and raising the food to feed those armies, and in working in the thousands of manufacturing establishments, making munitions of war, canning food, making clothing and the hundreds of other things absolutely necessary, than they can be on the actual firing line.

If Colonel Roosevelt wants to raise a regiment, or a division, and sufficient cowboys, negroes and others who like that sort of thing, want to join it and go across to fight, let them have the privilege. Let every man have the privilege to volunteer, if he feels that way, but to force our men by conscription and draft to go, while from ten to fifteen millions of Russians and Japs are available, if equipped, ought not to be, and the consensus of opinion is unquestionably to that effect.

The state general assembly is again a thing of the past, and while it passed a few measures of general benefit, it is doubtful if the good it accomplished for the state and the people amounts to the expense incurred. Legislatures are getting to be huge jokes nowadays all over the country, and that of California is close to the head in that class. Time was when it was a great honor to be elected to a state Legislature. Now it is more apt to turn out to be a disgrace.

No saloon regulation or liquor legislation of any kind got by the Legislature. The booze lobby was strong enough to get everything it wanted. How much the liquor interests spent, and who got it, will, as usual, remain a dark secret.

JUDGE ROTH FIGURES ON WAR AND KAISERISM

The Kaiser justifies his declaration of war against France on the grounds that as Germany had of late years grown to be the great manufacturing nation of the world, and that a collusion was entered into with England to mobilize their armies and fortify the border facing the English channel, thus cutting off Germany from the high seas and giving England and France an unfair advantage in the commercial world.

I will undertake to show the fallacy of that reasoning by facts all men know. At the beginning of his previous administration President Wilson and Mr. Bryan started what is known as the Peace Pact, which was signed and ratified by our government; then sent broadcast to all the governments of the earth. It was signed and ratified by Japan, China, England, France, Russia, Italy and other nations, numbering thirty in all. The substance of that agreement was:

First. That no government should declare war against any other government in the pact until one year had elapsed after its bill of grievances had been sent and during that year those grievances were to be submitted to the arbitrators at the Hague.

Second. That the sea should be forever free for the commerce of all nations from the largest to the smallest.

Such were the terms of the Peace Pact, signed and ratified by thirty of the great, powerful nations of the earth at a time when not even the smallest war cloud was visible from anywhere on the earth's surface. Had Germany signed that Peace Pact, war would have been impossible, as no nation could have declared war within a year, and we all know that there are sufficient cool heads in any nation to settle their differences in that time ad none could afford to be a national outlaw. While the Emperor acquiesced in the principle of the pact, he yet refused to sign up. That would have guaranteed him the open sea for the commerce of Germany without question. It would have assured him of precisely just what he is now pretending is a justification for launching the bloodiest war in all history. His enemies in this war, France, England, Russia, Italy, and now the United States, all signed the Peace Part, which is proof positive that neither of them wanted either war, or to bar the commerce of any nation from the high seas.

What, then, in all human probability, could have been the Kaiser's reason for not signing that Peace Pact at once? With the lamps of history to guide me I can see but two possible reasons.

First. That with the mightiest army the world ever knew, tired of long inaction, he would send them down through friendly Belgium on a picnic excursion, then take Paris with little resistance and change the map of Germany to suit himself, and then sign the agreement.

Second. It might have been to rush down and take Paris, dictate terms to England, and then declare himself political dictator of all Europe.

His ambition in either case stayed his hand from signing that Peace Pact, and civilization must now strike down that ambition or submit to a one man government ruling the world.

Many good people still think that the United States should have stayed out of the war and let Europe settle her own affairs in her own way. The fact is that the neutrals of Europe, with the awful lesson of Belgium before them, and knowing the deadly character of the submarines, under the command of but one man who owed no allegiance to any man but himself, had it in his power to starve every government in Europe into submission.

The United States is the only government on earth today with sufficient power and the necessary means to stay that one man's hand. There is scarcely any doubt but that the war declaration of our President was the direct cause of the overthrow of the one man government in Russia. Were the Czar of Russia in full power today there would be great danger of a settlement with Germany and Turkey, and thus a triple alliance to control Europe with the German Emperor as its head.

When the German submarines commenced their uncivilized and unlawful warfare, President Wilson strenuously protested, and even went so far as to threaten the German government to such an extent that the Kaiser agreed to sink no more ships flying the stars and stripes without first warning them, and also to rescue the survivors. This was not to apply, however, to any ship attempting to escape or refusing to be searched for contraband of war. This agreement was duly signed and for a time was adhered to as far as possible and our country was hopeful that war would be averted. This proving, however, to be too slow for the Kaiser, he revoked the agreement by sending us a map marking off nearly half of the Atlantic and giving notice to the world that that map marked a line of blockade within which they would sink without warning and without guarantee to aid survivors, any ship carrying anything to or from Europe within that zone.

It was this notice which caused the break with the Emperor and a little later the declaration of war by the United States.

The President specifically says:

"We have no quarrel with the German people, not even with the submarine if used according to the law which all government ratified."

It was the inhuman and unlawful command of one man that forced the United States into this war. The Germans are a good people. They are among the very best emigrants to our country. They have shown their patriotism and valor when our country's fate hung in the balance. The soil of every battlefield from Bull Run to Appomattox is consecrated with the dust and ashes of thousands upon thousandss of dead heroes from the dear old Fatherland, who laid down their lives that our own free government should not perish from the earth. We have no right to question their patriotism as a whole. Of course there are adventurers among them and I dare say that among our own people there are many who would sell their services for gold if sufficient in amount to betray any cause on earth. I have never yet met a single German who sanctioned the sinking of the Lusitania, when men, women and children were ruthlessly left to perish in the icy waters of the Atlantic, without having a helping hand offered them. That is murder, cold-blooded and premeditated, not by the command or authority of the German people, but by the hellish ambition of one man's brain, who holds his position only by the claim of Divine right.

Had the German government been representative, the Peace Pact would have been signed. If her government would change now, as Russia did, the war would be over within a month, is my judgment.

Of course the question of indemnity is now a grave one to determine. Yet there can be no reason to believe that it could be settled easier by prolonging the war. The one man government must be forever barred from the sisterhood of nations, because it has proven to be a menace to civilization.

This war, before the United tSates entered into it, was simply an old time war of conquest. The President's declaration, however, has changed its aspect entirely. Had the Europeans alone fought it to a finish, either the Kaiser would have controlled Europe or the German government would have been dismembered. With the influence of the government of the United States, at the wind-up no conquest of territory will be permissible. Each will emerge intact, each to be governed only by the consent of the governed. The President's clear declaration, which says that it shall not be a war of conquest, and which was so overwhelmingly sanctioned by Congress, ought to satisfy the German people wherever dispersed around the globe, that they need no longer fear the dissolution of the Fatherland in any event. May not this war yet prove to be the crucible in which to separate the pure gold from the glittering dross of all governments, as the fires of the rebellion purified our own government.

Should the representative government of Germany at the close of the war sign and ratify the Peace Pact which the thirty nations have already signed and ratified, then would the blood spilled in this great and unparalelled war not have been sacrificed in vain. Then for the first time in the history of the world could we reasonably expect the doctrines of brotherly love to prevail among the nations of the earth, according to the lessons of the Lowly Nazarene so vividly expressed in his sermon on the mount the greatest peace message in all human history.

DIVORCE RECORD SAVES GATLIN.

James R. Gatlin, arrested on complaint of his second wife on a bigamy charge, when she learned that he had been married before, has been released from custody, Judge Jacobs of Richmond having received a wire yesterday to the effect that the divorce record of Gatlin from his first wife had been mailed. Gatlin was released on his own recognizance, but must appear in the event that the record should prove to be defective.

The second Mrs. Gatlin wired the Judge that when Gatlin got his second marriage license he stated that he had not previously been married. Possibly under the circumstances he did not think it "took."

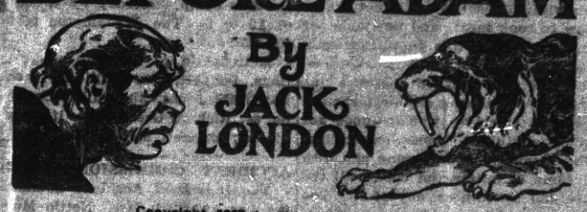
BEFORE ADAM

By JACK LONDON



Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

Never was so masterly a creature so completely baffled. It hurt his pride terribly thus to be outwitted by the small and tender folk. He stood on the ground and looked up at us, snarling, lashing his tail, snapping at the stones that fell near to him. Once I whizzed down a stone, and just at the right moment he looked up. It caught him full on the end of his nose, and he went straight up in the air, all four feet of him, roaring and caterwauling what of the hurt and surprise.

He was beaten, and he knew it. Recovering his dignity, he stalked out solemnly from under the rain of stones. He stopped in the middle of the open space and looked wistfully and hungrily back at us. He hated to forego the meal, and we were just so much meat cornered, but inaccessible. This sight of him started us to laughing. We laughed derisively and uproariously, all of us. Now, animals do not like mockery. To be laughed at makes them angry. And in such fashion our laughter affected Saber Tooth. He turned with a roar and charged the bluff again. This was what we wanted. The fight had become a game, and we took huge delight in pelting him.

But this attack did not last long. He quickly recovered his common sense and, besides, our missiles were shrewd to hurt. Vividly do I recollect the vision of one bulging eye of his, swollen almost shut by one of the stones we had thrown. And vividly do I retain the picture of him as he stood on the edge of the forest whither he had finally retreated. He was looking back at us, his writhing lips lifted clear of the very roots of his huge fangs, his hair bristling and his tail lashing. He gave one last snarl and slid from view among the trees.

And then such a chattering as went up. We swarmed out of our holes, examining the marks his claws had made on the crumbling rock of the bluff, all of us talking at once. One of the two folk who had been caught in the double cave was part grown, half child and half youth. They had come out proudly from their refuge, and we surrounded them in an admiring crowd. Then the young fellow's mother broke through and fell upon him in a tremendous rage, boxing his ears, pulling his hair and shrieking like a demon. She was a strapping big woman, very hairy, and the thrashing she gave him was a delight to the horde. We roared with laughter, holding on to one another or rolling on the ground in our glee.

In spite of the reign of fear under which we lived the folk were always great laughers. We had the sense of humor. Our merriment was Gargantuan. It was never restrained. There was nothing halfway about it. When a thing was funny we were convulsed with appreciation of it, and the simplest, crudest things were funny to us. Oh, we were great laughers, I can tell you!

The way we had treated Saber Tooth was the way we treated all animals that invaded the village. We kept our runways and drinking places to ourselves by making life miserable for the animals that trespassed or strayed upon our immediate territory. Even the fiercest hunting animals we so bedeviled that they learned to leave our places alone. We were not fighters like them; we were cunning and cowardly, and it was because of our cunning and cowardice and our inordinate capacity for fear that we survived in that frightfully hostile environment of the younger world.

Lop Ear, I figure, was a year older than I. What his past history was he had no way of telling me, but as I never saw anything of his mother I believed him to be an orphan. After all fathers did not count in our horde. Marriage was as yet in a rude state, and couples had a way of quarreling and separating. Modern man, what of his divorce institution, does the same thing legally. But we had no laws, custom was all we went by, and our custom in this particular matter was rather promiscuous.

Nevertheless, as this narrative will show later on, we betrayed glimmering adumbrations of the monogamy that was later to give power to and make mighty such tribes as embraced it. Furthermore, even at the time I was born, there were several faithful couples that lived in the trees in the neighborhood of my mother. Living in the thick of the horde did not conduce to monogamy. It was for this reason, undoubtedly, that the faithful couples went away and lived by themselves. Through many years these couples stayed together, though when the man or woman died or was eaten the survivor invariably found a new mate.

There was one thing that greatly puzzled me during the first days of my residence in the horde. There was a ceaseless and incommunicable fear that rested upon all. At first it appeared to be connected wholly with one direction. The horde feared the northeast. It lived in perpetual apprehension of that quarter of the compass. And every individual gazed more frequently and with greater alarm in that direction than in any other.

WHAT DO YOU WANT?

It would assist the market managers greatly if people would just drop a note into a basket or box that will be provided, stating what they would like carried, what fish they prefer and when, the sort of vegetables they wish, etc. This is your market, folks, and the commissioners want to get you what you want. THE SPOTLIGHT

By the OLD MAN.

The three high men at the primaries showed up when the final vote was officially counted at 10 o'clock last night, as Long, Garrard and Watson, and while a much larger vote may be expected at the regular election than at the primaries, and the vote of the six who failed at the primaries will be divided among the remaining six, still, it may be figured right now that the three men who came out high at the primary are going to be mighty hard to beat at the regular election. From the present outlook it is safe to predict that Long and Garrard will be re-elected and that the third place will be filled by either Watson, Tonce or Ludewig, with Watson having a shade the best of it as far as the primary returns are concerned, which is a fairly good straw to show which way the wind is blowing.

Attention, Point people: There is to be a big boost meeting of the West Side Commercial Club tonight at Fraternal Hall, and it is important that every live man of the Point section be on hand, for there is going to be something stirring. The ladies of the West Side Women's Club should also attend, for a matter of importance to them is to come up.

◆◆

Don't get scared just because prices go up a little. That is only natural in war times. In another two months, when that seven billions gets out into general circulation, everybody will have money.

◆◆

It is pretty nearly time for another Chamber of Commerce feast. Will Secretary Long please get busy and order some corn bread and liver? Let the next meeting be for a trade at home campaign. Who will second the motion? Senator Jim has the floor.

◆◆

One disgruntled market man got very angry yesterday over the city's municipal markets, and said he intended seeing to it that they paid taxes, same as any other business house. Well, that would be all right, but how are you going to work it? It would be a case of the city paying taxes to itself, or taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another. Takes all kind of people to make a world.

◆◆

Fred Renner befriended a tramp barber Saturday night, by staking him to the eats and giving him permission to sleep in the back part of the shop, with the result that Sunday morning he disappeared with $35 worth of barber tools and a fine pair of field glasses. Fred is now a sadder Budweiser man. The police are investigating.

◆◆

Mr. Mallory, who has been head of the circulation department for the News, is going into other lines of business, and the circulation will be handled here at the office by the management of the paper. 167 new subscribers joined the News family in April.

◆◆

It does seem as if so many elections are unnecessary. Now we have got to do this all over again, nad pay out a thousand dollars to do it. One voting should be enough.

◆◆

Doc Horner, Nicy Ayer and George Griffin are all perfectly willing to commit matrimony on short notice, but are afraid to speak to any of the young ladies about for fear that they would be looked upon as slackers. Yes, but is not a man a sort of slacker who neglects his duty to the fair sex? Girls, if you will lend the News a little assistance, we believe we can get these three guys married off between now and next Thanksgiving, so they will have something to be thankful for.

◆◆

Otto Mueller has out a big sign announcing that he is going to quit Richmond. Lew Schroeder has bought him out.

◆◆

The city officials and the Building Trades Council are to play a match game of ball for charity. With Judge Hall as a famous home runner, the city hall crowd have a shade the best of it, but we are inclined to believe that the big huskies of the Trades Council can put it over them.

◆◆

We were mistaken in saying that any candidate could be elected at the primary by getting a majority of all votes polled. This is so under the state law, but not so under the Richmond charter. Jim Long got more than half the votes polled, and ought to be declared elected, but under the charter will have to run again.

◆◆

A meeting of the municipal food commission is called for Wednesday evening at 7:30, at the office of Kueffer & Co. All are requested to attend, as matters of importance are to bed iscussed.

◆◆

The News was in error in saying that Councilman Penry voted against the News getting the city printing contract. We looked up the vote on the records last night and find that every member of the council voted against the Record-Herald and for the News. Where we got mistaken was because of the fact that Penry voted the other way on the printing of the proposed new charter, but that was before the court had decided upon the legality of the News as a daily paper of general circulation under the meaning of the law. We do not wish to misquote Mr. Penry on this matter, hence this explanation. We are of course much pleased to find that the vote for the News was unanimous.

◆◆

Up to the time of going to press at 3 a. m. this morning, they were still counting Jim Long's vote. He ought to be ashamed! Don't that man suppose somebody else wants a few votes.

◆◆

Our people need to learn how to economize with their foodstuffs, as the people of other countries do. Americans are the most improvident in such matters of any race on the face of the earth. Mr. Ludewig told us last night that most people demand halibut at 20c a pound when good sole is obtainable for about half that. The sole is just as good, just as nourishing and a better flavor. We prefer it to halibut. Ludewig pays 16c a pound for the halibut, and after adding overhead expenses and a small profit has to sell it at 20c, which is low enough, considering what he has to pay for it at Settle, and then pay express on it, but the point is that the cheaper varieties are just as good. The same is true of meats. The average American housewife does not know how to cook meat, and not much of anything else, like foreign women do. A round of flank steak, casseroled, is just as good and just as juicy and tender as any porterhouse, but the American woman does not know anything about caseroling. She throws it into a frying pan with a lump of butter and cooks all the life and tenderness out of it. Too many can-opener cooks.

ATTENDED ELKS DEDICATION

The dedication of their new home by the Elks of San Rafael attracted several hundred members of the order to that place Sunday, more than a hundred going from Richmond. There was a big parade, in which the local Elks were a distinctive feature. Judge Melvin made an address, and District Deputy Hal C. Ross of San Mateo was master of ceremonies. The visiting lodges made gifts to the San Rafael lodge Richmond's gift being a silver charity box. C. B. Martin making the presentation speech.

ELKS SHUT OUT WOODMEN.

A habit once contracted is very hard to get rid of; in fact, almost impossible. So it is with our Elks. They have contracted the habit of shutting out all whom they have bucked up against and heaven only knows who'll cure them. It looked for the first five innings as though the Woodmen would be the ones to do it, but no such luck. It only took the Elklets that long to get used to "Doc" Manning's dope, then they landed on him for four runs. Another "Doc" then was sent for, this being Hurll, who saved the three other men from coming in, but his saving did not last long, for he also was lambasted to the tune of five runs in the eighth.

The Elks were very much assisted in their run-getting by the Woodmen second baseman, who made about two dozen errors and kicked the ball all over the lot.

Schwacke and Heister were the star hitters.

Friene had an easy time, only two hits being garnered off of him, and in the ninth he pitched left-handed, they were so easy for him

The Woodmen were touched for ten hits.

Osgood of the Woodmen made a nice one-handed stab in the third, thereby saving two runs.

The score was 9 to 0.

G. W. Ford is in Arizona looking after real estate interests.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Erskine are moving to San Francisco to make their home in the future.

There will be no Women of Woodcraft whist party today.

SCHOOL BOYS BEAT SOLDIERS.
